

Demonic Hierarchies Linked to Protection and Justice

Posted on May 19, 2025 by Rhyan Hyroc

At the heart of infernal protection and justice magic lies the nuanced understanding of the spirits you work with—their nature, ranks, and domains. The Goetia presents a complex hierarchy of demons, each embodying distinct archetypes and powers that govern aspects of protection, truth, justice, and breaking malice.

This lesson explores these hierarchies and profiles key infernal entities, helping you build a solid foundation for safe, respectful, and effective spiritual partnerships. Appreciating their roles and attributes not only empowers your rituals but also deepens your spiritual insight and sovereignty.

The Structure of Goetic Hierarchies: Kings, Dukes, Presidents, and More

The Goetia categorizes spirits into ranks such as Kings, Dukes, Princes, Marquises, and Presidents, reflecting a celestial court structure mirroring human aristocracy but infused with profound metaphysical significance.

Each rank indicates a spirit's power scope, responsibilities, and influence over domains like protection, justice, knowledge, or destruction. When working for protection or justice, understanding these ranks guides you in selecting appropriate spirits for specific magical needs and helps maintain proper ritual protocol and respect.

Key Spirits of Protection and Justice: Profiles and Attributes

Andromalius — The Unmasker of Deceit and Protector of Justice

Rank: Earl / Duke

Demonic Hierarchies Linked to Protection and Justice

Role: Reveals thieves, liars, and traitors; returns stolen goods; punishes the guilty; guardian of moral order.

Andromalius is the quintessential spirit of infernal justice. His ability to unmask lies and bring hidden truths to light makes him a powerful ally for those seeking clarity and protection against deceit. Invoking Andromalius requires clear intent, as his justice is uncompromising and precise.

His protection extends to reclaiming what is lost or stolen, including energy and honor, making him indispensable in both legal and spiritual justice workings.

Haures (Hauras) — The Fierce Protector and Revelation Spirit

Rank: Duke

Role: Provides protection, reveals hidden truths, and punishes enemies; controls terrors and grants courage.

Haures is a fierce spirit who embodies protective fire and revelation. He shields the practitioner from harm while illuminating hidden threats or spiritual dangers. Haures is particularly effective in ritual settings requiring boldness and confrontation of malevolent forces.

Halphas — The Guardian of Fortifications and Defensive Magic

Rank: Earl

Role: Commands legions for defense; protects strongholds and wards off enemies; expert in defense strategies.

Halphas is a master of fortification, both physical and spiritual. When you need to build strong energetic walls around your home or spirit, Halphas lends his expertise. His disciplined nature assists in organizing protection magic systematically.

Raum — The Spirit of Confiscation and Energetic Shielding

Rank: Earl

Demonic Hierarchies Linked to Protection and Justice

Role: Steals secrets from enemies; breaks down barriers; protects against spiritual theft and harm.

Raum is adept at dismantling enemy plans and energetically shielding the practitioner from hidden attacks. His skill in taking away harmful energies makes him a versatile ally in protection and justice.

Marax (Morax) — Protector and Master of Knowledge and Healing

Rank: Earl

Role: Grants knowledge of herbs and stones; protects through wisdom and healing; shields against unseen threats.

Marax combines protection with healing and wisdom, offering a holistic approach to safeguarding body and spirit. His guidance can enhance protective workings by integrating natural magics.

Glasya-Labolas — The Justice Enforcer and Protector Against Enemies

Rank: President

Role: Expert in uncovering enemies; protects from harm and danger; teaches strategic defense and legal magic.

Glasya-Labolas is a complex spirit of justice, with a reputation as both a protector and a bringer of retribution. His expertise in social and legal justice makes him a favored spirit for rituals addressing slander, enemies, and protection of reputation.

Astaroth — Gatekeeper of Ancient Knowledge and Social Justice

Rank: Duke

Role: Keeper of secrets and justice; helps in negotiations and legal matters; empowers spiritual sovereignty.

Astaroth offers wisdom for navigating social justice and legal complexities. Invoking him in protection and justice workings provides clarity, power, and authority.

Malphas — Architect of Defense and Curse Reversal

Rank: President

Role: Constructs fortresses and defensive barriers; breaks hexes and curses; reveals enemy plans.

Malphas is the master architect of infernal protection. His energy is ideal for building impenetrable spiritual defenses and undoing malice aimed at the practitioner.

Buer — Healer and Protector Through Restoration

Rank: President

Role: Heals physical and spiritual wounds; protects by restoring balance; aids in curse breaking.

Buer complements protection magic with healing power. His restorative energy not only shields but also repairs damage caused by malice, making him essential in curse reversal rituals.

Orobas — Truth Revealer and Loyal Protector

Rank: Prince

Role: Reveals truth, fosters loyalty, and protects the faithful; supports justice and integrity.

Orobas is a trustworthy spirit for justice and protection. His emphasis on loyalty and truth aids the practitioner in discerning friend from foe and in pursuing ethical justice.

The Importance of Spirit Roles and Domains

Every spirit governs specific domains and functions. Choosing the right spirit for your magical objective depends on matching their attributes to your needs.

- Protection against deception and betrayal: Andromalius, Orobas, Glasya-Labolas
- Physical and energetic shielding: Halphas, Malphas, Raum
- Revealing hidden dangers and enemy plans: Haures, Raum, Malphas
- Healing and restoring from spiritual harm: Buer, Marax
- Legal and social justice empowerment: Astaroth, Glasya-Labolas

Understanding these nuances allows you to tailor rituals precisely, honor spirits properly, and work effectively.

Storytelling: An Initiate's Discovery of Spirit Roles

Sophia, a rising practitioner, initially struggled to discern which spirits to call for protection. Early rituals felt unfocused, and her results were inconsistent.

Through study and meditation, Sophia learned to identify the unique energy signatures and roles of each spirit. When her home was plagued by unseen disturbances, she called Halphas to build energetic walls and Malphas to dismantle enemy hexes.

For a complicated legal dispute, she invoked Astaroth and Glasya-Labolas, gaining insight and strength to face her challenges.

This journey of discernment transformed Sophia's magical practice from random attempts into a precise, respectful partnership with the infernal hierarchy.

Practical Exercise: Mapping Spirit Roles for Your Needs

1. Reflect on your current challenges or goals related to protection and justice.
2. Research each spirit's domain and decide which one aligns best with your immediate needs.
3. Create a simple ritual plan invoking at least two spirits with complementary roles.
4. Journal your intentions, feelings, and any communications during your ritual practice.

This exercise fosters intentional spirit work and deepens your connection to their unique energies.

In this lesson, we explored the structured hierarchies of Goetic spirits linked to protection and justice and profiled key entities, their attributes, and domains. Mastery of this knowledge supports respectful invocation, targeted ritual design, and enhanced spiritual partnership.

The next lesson will introduce you to the energetic anatomy of malice—how curses and malevolent energies operate and how to recognize their presence—preparing you for effective breaking of malice.
