I. The Mystery of Beauty and the Law of Magnetic Form

Beauty is not skin deep. It is energetic geometry. It is the sacred symmetry of the soul made visible through the flesh, voice, movement, and aura. To be beautiful is not merely to be admired — it is to be obeyed by attention, to command entrance into spaces otherwise closed, and to draw both affection and influence through presence alone. A ritual for beauty is never a cosmetic act. It is a recalibration of the body-field to emit radiance, softness, magnetism, and embodied divinity.

The demon Sallos, prince of desire, sensuality, and magnetic harmony, rules this current. He does not manipulate — he attunes. He governs the energies that draw others without force and transform perception through aura. The spell for beauty, aligned with his dominion, sharpens the external world's reaction to the practitioner. It causes others to feel drawn, inspired, or captivated without knowing why. But the deeper power lies in the ritual: a sacred reconstruction of one's image through inner alignment and energetic polish. With Sallos, beauty is not an illusion — it becomes a truth that the world reflects back.

II. Historical and Social Background

The pursuit of beauty has always been spiritual. In ancient Egypt, cosmetic rituals were offerings to the gods. To line the eyes was to mirror the divine gaze of Horus. In Sumerian hymns, Inanna was described as “arrayed in radiance,” her beauty tied to planetary movement and sacred sexuality. Hellenic rites dedicated to Aphrodite involved not perfume or cloth, but the invocation of attraction currents through sacred waters and breath.

Medieval magical traditions continued this alignment. The Picatrix contains planetary formulas for improving personal allure, charisma, and social favor. Renaissance magicians blended Venusian spirits with elemental enchantments to attract suitors or elevate beauty among nobles. In the infernal grimoires, one name stands out: Sallos. Often listed as a powerful duke or prince, he appears clothed in military dignity, yet his power is subtler than warfare — he subdues the hearts of men and women alike. His gifts are those of charm, beauty, seduction, and harmonious presence.

Angelic traditions, too, acknowledged beauty as a sign of divine order. Kabbalistic paths equate aesthetic balance with spiritual health. Tiphereth, the sefirah of beauty, is the midpoint of the Tree of Life — where divine light meets human form. From this sacred root, both visual beauty and moral splendor are born.

Today, beauty is consumed and distorted. Filters, surgery, and validation loops distort the original principle. But true occultists return to the ancient way: to become beautiful not only in face, but in field. And no spirit governs this art more directly than Sallos.

III. Different Spirits to Use (Demons, Kabbalistic Angels, Elenthos Spirits)

True mastery of beauty rituals and spells requires cooperation with spirits of various hierarchies. Each offers a unique current. The following spirits are most aligned with enchantment, radiance, allure, and aesthetic mastery:

Demons

- Sallos – Demon of desire, elegance, sexual magnetism, and beauty in both form and spirit. Operates directly on the emotions and perceptions of others. Central to the current of this ritual and spell.
- Gremory – Commands visual attraction, glamour, and recognition of one's physical allure. Strong in fashion and fame-based enchantments.
- Sitri – Stimulates physical desire and beautifies perception during encounters. Excellent for seduction and erotic presence.
- Asmoday – Dominates lust, adornment, and confidence. Can empower fashion, aesthetics, and bold charisma.

Kabbalistic Angels

- Anael – Angel of Venus, guardian of divine beauty, love, sensuality, and personal magnetism.
- Jeliel – Governs peaceful affection and attraction. Good for romantic beauty and emotional radiance.
- Mebahel – Enhances perception of elegance and mental beauty. Useful for those seeking to enchant through intellect and speech.
- Lelahel – Angel of artistic charm, physical brilliance, and admiration from others.

Elenthos Spirits (from verified archive only)

- Xalynta – Aligns energy fields for the manifestation of desired qualities, including radiance and physical changes.
- Luminara – Brings emotional harmony, self-love, and inner beauty that translates outwardly.
- Zoranyth – Enhances manifestation of personal goals, including transformation of appearance.

- Selphira - Embodies balance and cosmic elegance; stabilizes transformation to ensure beauty doesn't come with chaos.
- Kyralith - Clears distortions that affect self-perception and confidence, refining the personal mirror.
- Xyralis - Enables the external world to reflect internal truths, assisting in visible transformation.
- Zerithal - Oversees beauty linked to ancestral blessings, unlocking long-dormant features or aesthetic traits.

While each of these spirits holds power in the domain of beauty, Sallos is the primary current when the aim is total enchantment — not just to look beautiful, but to be experienced as such by others.

IV. The Importance of Attunement Before Using the Rituals and Spells

Beauty is an invitation, not a command. Spirits of beauty do not force their presence — they reflect alignment. Sallos, more than most, requires the practitioner to hold a degree of openness, softness, and clear intention. Without attunement, a ritual for beauty becomes cosmetic; with attunement, it becomes transformation.

Attunement is the process of harmonizing with the spirit's energetic current. With Sallos, it involves practicing presence, refining the emotional body, and removing inner sabotage around self-image and desirability. When properly attuned, the practitioner becomes an emissary of beauty — not through genetics or clothing, but through spiritual frequency. Their aura softens the air. Eyes linger. Admiration flows naturally. The spell for beauty then functions as an amplifier of this radiance.

The Terra Incognita Academy offers formal attunement to Sallos, based on verified occult procedures. This includes mantra cycles, sigil immersion, and seven remote ritual transmissions to weave Sallos' presence into the practitioner's field. The result is not symbolic. Initiates report changes in how they are seen, felt, touched, remembered.

V. The Ritual for Beauty

[restrict_content]

Purpose: To summon the spirit of Sallos and recalibrate the body-field into a radiant state of magnetic harmony and visual enchantment.

Timing: Friday at the hour of Venus. Waxing or full moon.

Materials:

- Pink or white silk cloth
- Sigil of Sallos drawn in red ink on fine parchment
- Rose or jasmine incense
- Clean bowl of spring water
- Copper mirror (or polished mirror without flaws)
- A strand of your own hair or skin-safe cosmetic powder
- Handwritten declaration of the beauty transformation you seek

Procedure:

1. Prepare the Setting – Lay the silk cloth. Place the sigil at the center. Incense to the right, water to the left. Mirror directly behind the sigil, facing you. Personal item atop the sigil.
2. Invocation of Sallos – Light the incense. Gaze into the sigil, then lift your eyes to the mirror. Speak aloud: “Sallos, Prince of Desire, Sovereign of the Beautiful Form — I summon you not as slave, but as seeker. Radiate through me. Reflect through me. Beautify not only my skin, but my current. Let all who see me behold your touch.”
3. Read Your Declaration – State aloud what you seek to transform or amplify (e.g., skin radiance, facial harmony, graceful posture, enchanting gaze).
4. Energetic Activation – Touch the water lightly, then anoint your brow, throat, and heart with three drops. Say: “Let the mirror remember. Let the world respond.”
5. Mirror Gaze – Look into the mirror silently for five minutes. Observe your face without judgment. Invite Sallos to reshape perception — yours and others’.
6. Seal the Work – Burn the strand of hair or powder in the incense flame

(safely). Then say: "I am become the mirror. I am become the charm. I am remembered."

7. End the Rite - Close the mirror. Store the sigil under your pillow for 7 nights.

This ritual should not be repeated more than once per lunar cycle. Watch for signs of altered perception, compliments, magnetized interactions, or softening features.
